Appeals Mechanisms in International Investment Disputes

Edited by KARL P. SAUVANT, Executive Director, Columbia Program on International Investment, Lecturer in Law at Columbia Law School and Co-Director of the Millennium Cities Initiative.

Appeals Mechanisms in International Investment Disputes brings together significant contributions from leading voices in academia, the legal profession, and government on the increasingly important topic of international investment and the legal system in which it operates. It compiles, compares, and contrasts the analysis and arguments of the leading scholars, practitioners, and government officials on the future of the international investment law regime.

With a particular emphasis on the question of an appellate body for international investment disputes, the authors explore ways to streamline and improve the system, channeling the benefits of investment flows to people in both the developing countries and emerging markets.

The volume is singular in its success at bringing together so many exceptional individuals on a question of growing importance—how to improve the international law regime to increase prosperity and further global development. If a reader wants to know what influential voices in international law are saying right now, and in a concise and readable format, this is the publication to have.
