The African Minerals Governance Framework was designed as a ‘toolbox’ for governments. The framework includes measures proposed by governments in the Africa Mining Vision. Designed by the African Minerals Development Centre, the framework includes specific assessment tools for evaluating and guiding countries in the implementation process.

The EITI Standard is focused on promoting “greater transparency and accountability in a legal, regulatory and procedural framework.” The standard seeks to ensure that all parties involved in the extractive industry are held accountable for their actions.

The World Bank is actively involved in the development of the EITI Standard. The World Bank supports the implementation of the EITI Standard by providing guidance and technical assistance to governments.

The EITI Standard is a tool for assessing and driving natural resource governance. It is a global initiative that focuses on promoting transparency and accountability in the extractive industry.